

BECKHAM DEFENDS LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Senator From Kentucky Says
Common Sense of People Tell Them It Is Worth Trying

Washington, July 21.—The first advocacy of the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations covenant from a Kentuckian in Congress was delivered in the Senate chamber today by Senator J. C. W. Beckham. Senator Beckham delivered a masterly argument, and he opened the eyes of many when he quoted Roosevelt as advocating a league of nations as is now proposed, in his speech accepting the Nobel peace prize at Christiania, Norway, in 1910, at which time Roosevelt said:

"It would be a masterly stroke. It would be a great power bent on peace would form a league of peace, not only to keep the peace among themselves, but to prevent, by force if necessary, its being broken by others. The supreme difficulty in connection with developing the peace work of the League arises from the lack of any executive power, of any police power, to enforce the decrees of the courts."

Again in a letter from Roosevelt to the New York Times, October 18, 1914, he expressed his views on the subject:

"The only permanent move for obtaining peace which has yet been suggested, with any reasonable chance of obtaining its object, is by an agreement among the great powers, in which each should pledge itself not only to abide by the decision of the common tribunal, but to back with force the decision of that common tribunal. The great civilized nations of the world which do possess force, actual or potential, should combine by solemn agreement in a great world league for the peace of righteousness."

Senator Beckham ridiculed the idea that the United States can ever again be isolated from the rest of the world as opponents of the league seem to desire. He pointed out that really at no time since its foundation, has this nation ever been isolated.

In the splendid common sense of the people of the United States is to be found an answer to the arguments that critics of the League make against it, Beckham declared. He said in part:

"It is their unflinching common sense which set naught the adroit and eloquent arguments of the opponents of the league. That common sense teaches them to ask these questions of the opponents: 'Let us admit that there is some force in your criticism of various sections of the league, do you not think it is, on the whole, worth trying? All other methods have failed in the past to keep the peace of the world. Triple alliances, entente cordiales, balances of power have all failed and broken down, and it is not well for us to try another plan, one which comes to us with the endorsement of the leading statesmen of all the nations who took part in the peace conference at Paris? Your arguments are plausible. We share that spirit of Americanism which pervades them, but where do they lead us? You propose no other remedy. Your criticism is destructive and not constructive. Without this league of nations what have we as a protection against future wars? If your position is correct and the league should be abandoned, then you would put us back to the statu quo ante bellum. That would be intolerable, and we would never agree to such a determination. We would infinitely rather take this league as it is, admitting the imperfections which you describe, than to go back to the international chaos that made possible the horrible tragedy which bereaved the whole world, sent to slaughter nearly 8,000,000 of the strong and brave young men of the world, and left in its wake a train of sorrow and desolation never before equaled in all history.'"

That, Mr. President, seems to me to be the way in which the great common people of the country are looking at this question. They have seen with remarkable quickness and precision that flaw in the argument of the opposition which suggests no substitute, which proposes no plan, which offers no remedy to protect us in any way whatever from the hideous monster of war. They are not deluded with the hope that this league will be an absolutely certain and sure preventive of future wars. They realize that no instrument of this kind can be at once framed and promulgated without imperfections or defects; but they do believe that it is infinitely better than any plan hitherto followed by the nations of the earth, and that it does offer the best hope that we can find to secure peace in the future."

They are willing to try it, Mr. President. The great majority of our people, beyond any doubt in my mind, favor its trial. Their fears have not been excited to any great degree by the gloomy pictures in the arguments of the opponents of the league. They are unwilling to believe that in article 10, or in some of the other sections which have been so severely inveighed against, there are hidden instruments of mischief that may at some time in the future be used to our great injury and loss. They have read that multi-abled article 10, which says:

"The high contracting parties undertake to respect and preserve, against external aggression, the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all States mem-

John Sharp Williams Gets Into The Game

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 21.—The Senate debate on the peace treaty and League of Nations was renewed today with a sharp controversy between Senators Williams, Lodge and Borah. Williams charged the republicans had submitted erroneous statistics regarding Shantung. Both Lodge and Borah denied the charge and insisted that Japan is given practical control of the entire province.

Senator Beckham, of Kentucky, is on the program for an address on the treaty. Beckham is known as a supporter of the President and an advocate of the Versailles pact as it stands.

FORMER RICHMOND GIRL SUCCUMBS

Miss Mallie Reed Barclay, who has many friends in Madison county, and who has been for some time seriously ill at the home of her parents in Chicago, died at 12:20 a. m., July 18th, and the interment took place the day following in Montrose cemetery, Chicago. She leaves surviving, her father, mother, two brothers and three sisters. One of her brothers, Rev. John Barclay, is now on his way home from France where he has been in the army service. Many and beautiful were the floral tributes to the splendid christian character of Miss Barclay. Rev. F. R. Mergetts, pastor of the Galilee Baptist church, Chicago, officiated. She was formerly of Richmond, and a granddaughter of Mr. Alex. Todd, of Kingston.

GOVERNMENT STOPS RACE WAR AT CAPITAL

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 21.—The federal government intervened today to prevent recurrence of the attacks made Saturday and Sunday nights by soldiers, sailors and marines against negroes in retaliation for assaults by negroes on white women here. Two hundred and fifty soldiers will patrol the streets tonight. Meanwhile the police and hospital records today showed scores of negroes injured while more than a dozen were treated at homes. At noon today the negroes gave the first evidence of retaliation when four drove up to the naval hospital and fired four shots at a sentry and four at inmates of the grounds. All went wild.

bers of the league. In case of any aggression, or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the executive council shall advise upon the means by which the obligation shall be fulfilled.

The common-sense citizen in reading that article does not see in it the many snares and mares' nests and evil demons which have possessed and inflamed the lurid imaginations of some orators, who have attempted to describe it as a veritable Pandora's box of troubles and danger. His common sense quickly answers these prophets of disaster with the unaltering conviction that if article 10 had existed as a part of international law in the early summer of 1914 and had been recognized as an obligation upon the part of those nations which were afterwards engaged in the war with Germany, as they now propose to recognize and enforce it, then that war would never have occurred and its untold and incalculable sacrifices would never have had to be made. Instead of article 10 being an invitation to war, as some have described it, it will become the greatest insurance we can or will secure against war in the future.

DOUBLE KILLING AT BEARWALLOW

Sam Hill and Constable Wm. Lear Both Die As Result of Shooting Affray Sunday.

Two men are dead as a result of a shooting affray in the Bearwallow section of Madison county Sunday. The dead men are Sam Hill, a well known farmer of that community and Constable Wm. Lear. The former was instantly killed by bullets from the officer's revolver, while Mr. Lear died at the Robinson Hospital, Berea, from the effects of two bullets in his bowels, fired by Hill.

According to the best information obtainable, and until the coroner's inquest or other investigation is had, Hill met a young man named Lunsford, who resided near him and told him that his (Lunsford's) hogs were in Hill's corn and that he would kill him if they were not gotten out in five minutes. The Lunsford boy said to have started to get his hogs out when the constable came up and told him to wait a minute.

It is alleged that Hill immediately opened fire with a pistol on the constable and the latter pulled his gun and fired in return. One report that reached town was that Lear fired first at Hill. Both men fell, mortally wounded, Hill expiring almost instantly. Lear had two bullets in his groin and he was taken to the hospital at Berea and every effort made to save his life, but without success. Both the dead men are said to have been men of families and well known in that section of the county.

In view of the fact that both of the principals to the tragedy are dead, there is said to be little that officials can do, except to perhaps hold a court of inquiry to determine the exact facts in the case, when Lunsford can tell what the knows of the killings and causes leading up thereto.

Wanted Stanford Girl Held

A telephone message to the local police officials Sunday asked them to arrest and hold a girl named Sallie Lunsford, of Stanford, who was said to have accompanied the Progressive Carnival Shows out of town when the show finished playing the capital of Lincoln. The girl was seen at the depot here as the troupe changed trains en route to Versailles. The local officers, however, had no authority to arrest her, having no warrant and no authority from the police of Stanford, and therefore did not arrest her. She is the daughter of J. M. Lunsford, of Stanford.

Close Call In Runaway

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Fowler, of Richmond, had a narrow escape when with their three children, they drove out to the Bearwallow section to pick blackberries Sunday. The mule Mr. Fowler was driving became frightened at a woman's white dress and ran away. Mr. Fowler jumped out holding to the lines and was dragged quite a distance, before the animal got loose from him. Mrs. Fowler and her little baby were thrown out, but luckily were not seriously injured. Their two other children slept peacefully in the wagon until the mule was stopped by a telephone post into which the animal crashed.

CARROLL'S FRIENDS BECOME ACTIVE

Cromwell's Straw Vote From 87 Counties Indicates Jurist Ahead of Gov. Black.

The activity of the friends of Judge John D. Carroll is the feature of the last two weeks before the state primary on August 2nd. Several Carroll meetings have been held in Madison, which has all along been conceded to be a Black stronghold. A Carroll organization has been effected here, however, under the leadership of Messrs. Green Clay, John Noland, and J. J. Greenleaf, and claims are being made that the Judge is going to get a surprising vote in this county. So far, the Black sentiment here is entirely spontaneous and unorganized. Many of his friends are saying that unless something is done in the way of organization that Judge Carroll is going to make a lot better showing in Madison than was thought probable a few weeks ago.

Friends of Judge Carroll are doing some strong advertising for him in today's Daily Register and they say they intend that the voters shall have arguments in favor of Judge Carroll's nomination clearly presented to them by the time primary day rolls around.

Continuation of Tom Cromwell's straw vote in Sunday's Enquirer has put a lot of enthusiasm into the local Carroll adherents. While the returns from over the state are not complete, Cromwell says that the vote from 87 counties indicates that Carroll will win. He says:

The 87 counties from which estimates have been received give a lead of 6,775 to Judge Carroll over Gov. James D. Black, and the vote accorded to P. J. Noel, of Harrodsburg, is so minor that he scarcely can be considered to be a factor in the race.

The 33 counties not reported are Ballard and Hickman, First congressional district; Hancock, Hopkins, McLean and Webster, Second; Allen, Logan and Warren, Third; Hardin, Hart, and Ohio, Fourth; Campbell and Kenton, Sixth; Lee, Seventh; Casey, Mercer, Jessamine, and Spencer, Eighth; Bath, Breathitt, Greenup, Montgomery, Nicholas, Rowan and Wolfe, Ninth; Floyd, Jackson, Martin and Owsley, Tenth, and Clay, Monroe and Rockcastle, Eleventh.

The estimators say there will be cast in Louisville and Jefferson county, otherwise the Fifth congressional district, approximately 18,000 votes, and that Carroll will receive 6,000 more than Black.

In the 11 counties reported from the First district, Carroll is accorded a plurality of 1,350, and in the four reported counties of the Second district, a plurality of 1,500 is seen for Carroll. The seven reported counties of the Third district give Black a plurality of 875. The ten counties heard from in the Fourth district accord Carroll 950 more than Black.

The six counties in the Sixth district showing estimates give a plurality of 1,900 to Carroll, while the 11 counties reported in the Seventh district accord the Chief Justice 5,400 more than the Governor.

Black has pluralities in the remaining four districts. The Eighth, seven counties in, accord 2,275 to him; the Ninth, eleven counties reported, 1,250; the Tenth, six counties reported, 2,100; and the Eleventh, 12 counties reported, 2,825.

WILSON WANTS AMERICA REPRESENTED AT ONCE

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 21.—President Wilson today asked the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to approve the appointment of the American member of the reparations commission, provided for under the peace treaty to act provisionally, pending Senate action on the Versailles document. The committee debated the request for an hour without acting.

Daniels Asks For More Facts About Tampico Trouble

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 21.—Secretary Daniels said today no part of the Pacific fleet now en route to the west coast, will be diverted to Mexican waters on account of the Tampico incident, July 6th, adding that if developments showed additional forces are needed, they will be drawn from the Atlantic fleet. Three American warships are now on duty near Tampico. Meanwhile urgent representations regarding the attack on American sailors in a small boat from the monitor Cheyenne, are expected to bring prompt action by the Mexican government, while the State Department's request to the commander of the cruiser Topeka for additional information is expected to develop the character of the band which robbed the sailors.

A dispatch to the State Department today from Tampico said bandits robbed the Atlantic Refining Company's oil loading station near Tampico of about $10,000, last week. A number of Senators and Representatives today discussed the Mexican situation with Henry P. Fletcher, American ambassador to Mexico.

Captured 163 Quarts of Booze

A big haul of whisky was made in the East End of Lincoln county Saturday, according to advices from there, when officers captured 163 quarts of liquor at Crab Orchard. Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Rowan Saufley and Deputy Sheriff Bob Lewis, raided a place run by a man named Singleton and found him well established for business, even though the country is supposed to have gone dry July 1st. The officers are said to have arrested both Singleton and the liquor.

GHOULS OPEN GRAVE OF YOUNG GIRL

Horrible Crime Near Ft. Thomas, Ky., Shrouded In Mystery—Detectives At Work

Cincinnati, O., July 19.—Ghouls, working in the silence of St. Stephen's Cemetery, on the Alexandria pike, one mile south of Ft. Thomas, Ky., Thursday night dug up from a freshly-made grave the body of Miss Clara Fischer, the pretty fifteen-year old daughter of Anton Fischer, 605 East Third street, Newport, Ky. The girl died last Monday following an operation for appendicitis.

From the slender hands, which crossed on her maiden breast clasping a rosary and the stem of a white lily, the ghouls stole the lily and carried it away.

The body of the girl, as startling evidence in the morning revealed, had been removed from the coffin, placed in a grassy nook sheltered by the broken boughs of a tree, and mistreated.

The body, with its shroud and burial clothing disheveled and torn, then was thrown back into the coffin, the lid replaced and the grave left open.

This ghastly crime, with its weird settings and the added mystery of the visit to the graveyard earlier Thursday night of a "strange, black-robed woman, wearing a peculiar triangular black hat, who frightened the sexton, was disclosed Saturday when it became known that many operatives of a Cincinnati private detective agency, said to have been employed by the Trustees of St. Stephen's Cemetery Association, have been running down scores of clues in an effort to solve the mystery.

Members of Clara Fischer's family were summoned and the box and casket were lifted to the surface. The lid of the casket, it was found, had been loosely screwed back into place. When the lid was opened, evidence that the body of the young girl had been removed from it immediately became apparent. The body was displaced and pressed against one end of the coffin. The hands one of which still clutched a rosary, were at her sides. The white lily, which had been placed in the other hand when the hands were folded across her breast, had disappeared.

The shroud was crumpled and the burial dress was raised above the knees. Dirt stains were on the white silk stockings. The girl's hair was disarranged.

One of her feet was incased in a slipper. The other slipper was found under the girl's back in the coffin. A large piece of white cloth, which had been bound around the body by undertakers to hold it in position was missing. Later it was found rolled up in a sewer catch basin 30 feet away.

Every foot of space in the cemetery was searched and the earth from the grave sifted for trace of the lily which had been in the girl's hand, but it could not be found.

Near the grave it was found two boughs of a tree had been twisted and broken, the branches sweeping the ground, forming a canopy. The grass beneath this improvised canopy was found to be trampled and flattened.

This led investigators to believe the body of the girl had been lifted from the coffin, feet first, and then carried to the grassy shelter.

Tangled threads in the gruesome tragedy, operatives engaged to investigate the amazing crime, added to the mysterious elements of the case a gray automobile, seen near the cemetery Thursday night, the presence of several men near the cemetery at the time the mysterious woman in black frightened away the sexton, and a pit taken from the shroud in which the body was wrapped.

Plans to exhume the body a second time to determine the extent of its mistreatment at the hands of ghouls are, according to the theory of detectives, their female accomplice had departed, are to be carried into effect.

Frederick Blye, the sexton, yesterday retold his story of how he was frightened from the cemetery at 9 o'clock Thursday night by the sudden appearance beside him of the "woman in black" when he was digging another grave, several hundred yards from the grave, of Clara Fischer. Wearing a garb of mourning and a curious hat, which reminded him of "the devil's cap and bells," he says, she professed her late visit to be for the purpose of mourning a "dead relative."

Blye, dropping his tools, left the cemetery in haste and returned the following morning, to find the shovel, his handle broken; the spade and the pick, all the tools of the professional gravediggers, lying besides the open grave of Clara Fischer.

Other descriptions of the mysterious woman, gained from persons who saw her in the vicinity of the cemetery Thursday evening, tally with those of the frightened sexton. Her peculiar hat, it is said, was of black straw.

Among a number of persons who have been questioned by detectives, it was understood, was a man who, because of his physical deformities, is said to have earned for him among a certain class of acquaintances an unenviable nickname.

Detectives are investigating the presence of several men who, it is said, were observed in the vicinity of the cemetery last Thursday night, and these, added to the mystery of the gray automobile, form clues on which the operatives are working in an effort to unravel the crime. A part of the number of the mysterious gray au-

The Eighth District Contest

(Louisville Times Editorial)
The Eighth Congressional District of Kentucky, as thoroughly American a region as there is in this country, has an opportunity before it in the special election of August 2. All other political divisions in the State have a primary to consider, but the Eighth district alone has the right to elect a public officer to sit in Congress as its representative until the end of the unexpired term of the late Harvey Helm. In Judge Charles A. Hardin the Democrats have a nominee whose excellent of character, native ability, culture and responsibility it gives The Times great pleasure to assert.

Judge Hardin leaves practically a life-time term on the bench to make this race for a short term. It was a hard decision for him, for all the persuasions of inclination and material advantage were against it. He is making his fight on national issues and supports wholly the President's programme, both international and national. His opponent, Capt. King Swope, is a man whom The Times would not for a moment disparage; but it prefers for Congress Judge Hardin and his platform as certain to contribute more toward the achievement of permanent peace in that his election will be an unequalled endorsement of the League of Nations and the work of the Peace Conference. Such an outcome will have a real effect upon proceedings in the Senate and will also send to Congress a thoroughly worthy man.

The Eighth district is as typical of the citizenship of Kentucky as could be found; rich agriculturally, gemmed with fine cities like Shelbyville, Danville, Harrodsburg, Stanford, Lancaster, Richmond, Nicholasville, Taylorsville, Lawrenceburg, Liberty and Columbia, to name a few of the many, close politically; wholly American. It an honor to represent such a constituency.

JUDGE BLACK'S RECORD

Was Attorney For L. & N. Railroad and Asking Passes in Order That Jurors Might Be Packed for the Railroads. At the Same Time He Was Acting As First Assistant Attorney General for the State of Kentucky

(Editorial From Glasgow Times)—It has been the general belief that Governor James D. Black, because he led the ticket in the last gubernatorial election, was the logical man to head the ticket now. Many Democrats have been impressed that he was the Moses to lead the party to victory in 1919. He did not, however, even lead the ticket.

But his record as disclosed by the probe made by the Interstate Commerce Commission into the corrupt and criminal manipulation of judges, jurors and officials by the L. & N. Railroad Company by the free distribution of passes, has cast a light on the action of the Governor wholly unknown to the Democrats of the State at the time he was supposed to have led the ticket. Again, we emphasize the fact that the claim of his leading the State ticket in the last gubernatorial race is without foundation and is wholly disproved by the official count.

The following letter, written by him and UNEARTHED BY THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION IN 1916, addressed to B. D. Warfield Attorney for the L. & N. Railroad Company, is explanatory:

"Dear Mr. Warfield: Mr. William Tye, of this place, and the owner of the local newspaper, 'The People's News,' has recently sold said paper to Dr. Charles Davis, of this place. By virtue of some arrangement with the L. & N. R. R. Company Mr. Tye holds a pass over a portion of the company's lines in Kentucky. Because of said transfer of the ownership of said paper, Mr. Tye will have to surrender his pass; and Dr. Davis will likely apply for same instead. I write to ask, at the suggestion of Mr. Tye, that you permit Mr. Tye to retain his pass during the remainder of the year. He agrees to assist us in the company's litigation in the courts. His service in this regard will amply justify the company in permitting him to hold the pass for said time."

"He is of a numerous and influential family and some of his people are usually on the juries in our courts. I think it would be a good idea to allow free transportation for said time."

Upon receiving the letter Mr. Warfield addressed the Vice President of the L. & N. Railroad Company, Mr. W. L. Mapother, as follows, making notation on the bottom of the letter: "Please note and return. Mr. Black, besides being one of our attorneys at Barbourville, is also the First Assistant Attorney General of Kentucky under the present administration."

"Therefore, I think it will be well to comply with his request. Please let me know whether I may say to him that this will be done."

This hidden history brings to light the fact that Governor Black, while he was acting as First Assistant Attorney General for Kentucky was at the time an attorney for the L. & N. Railroad Company.

Would Judge Carroll have been guilty of this act? Most certainly not. Would Judge Denhardt have done this? Never! It is unthinkable that Judge Black can reconcile his own conscience to this attempted manipulation and corruption of courts and juries. The Times does not care to dwell upon the shameful matter further. The record speaks for itself.

The man to head the Democratic ticket this year—above all other times—must be the ablest, the best and the purest, and above suspicion—one who will not be discovered to be, after his election, a different type from that which he was believed to be before his nomination and election; one who will not make promises to be broken; one who will not surround himself with a horde of hungry office-holders and office-seekers to make trades for him with which to win his nomination and election.

Any other manner of man cannot lead—even if selected and nominated—the Democracy of Kentucky to the victory to which it is entitled at the polls in November, 1919. The voters of this Commonwealth cannot be and should not be, persuaded to believe that any other type of candidate, even if elected Governor of Kentucky would not continue his same old methods—even against the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The leopard cannot change his spots, and the elevating of a man from one State office to the office of Governor will not change his nature and character.

The perfection and the purity of the jury system have been the pride and the hope of our country, and the basis of our system of government, yet this suggestion by Judge Black, when carried out, evades, invades and destroys this system.

With a consciousness of our duty to the Democrats of Kentucky, with an unflinching devotion to the eternal principles of Democracy, and with an abiding faith in the Democratic party, we urge the untainted, the boys in the trenches, the bone and sinew of Democracy, to look well into the life and work of the aspirants for this nomination before it is everlastingly too late.

The Times has not the slightest ill-feeling against Judge Black, but it will not allow the great Democratic party in Kentucky—the pride and hope of a fearless citizenship—to rush blindly without its warning as to its peril. But the Times desires to be absolutely fair, and, if the above recital of cold facts are in any degree incorrect, or false, it will give Judge Black, or his friends, all necessary space to correct the matter. Above all things, it purpose to play the game fair.

JUDGE BLACK'S L. & N. LETTER

(Editorial From Meade County Messenger)

On another page of this issue is printed an editorial which appeared in the Glasgow Times of May 21, 1919. It relates to a letter written by Judge James D. Black, who is asking the Democrats of the Kentucky to nominate him for Governor.

We have no grievances against Judge Black and entertain no personal or political ill-will against him, but the Democrats of the State are entitled to and ought to know before the primary the public record of all candidates for office.

This railroad letter was published in the Courier-Journal last December, and since that time Judge Black on three different occasions publicly stated that in due time he would explain it, but thus far he has failed to even try to do so. Evidently he intends to ignore it, but the Democrats of the State cannot afford to treat it with indifference. If it could have been explained or defended, Judge Black should have done so the day after it was published; he should have done so in his opening speech in this campaign. His failure to do so justifies us in saying that he can make no defense and, in plain truth, no explanation or defense can be made of a letter like this.

It is a serious matter for a private citizen, much less a public officer, to be guilty of the grave offense of tampering with jurors. Suppose you had a case pending against a corporation and you discovered that the attorney for the corporation had advised his client that a prominent man should be given $100 to "fix" the jury; what would you think about it? Would you vote for him for Governor or any other office? Is there any difference between giving money for this corrupt purpose and giving a pass, which represents money?

The Democrats of the State had an experience like this four years ago when a candidate was nominated for a State office and after his nomination it was made public that he had been guilty of offenses that showed him to be unfit for the office. Tomorrow, then as now the Republican candidate for Governor, attacked this man's record in every speech he made, and the result was that after having been nominated by the Democrats by a large majority, he was defeated in the regular election by a Republican. The offense this man was guilty of was not nearly so serious as the offense Judge Black is charged with, and what Morrow did to the other candidate four years ago he would certainly do to Black in the November election. Can the Democrats of the State afford to make a mistake like this? Can they afford to nominate a man who will be assailed throughout the State and for whose conduct no explanation or defense can be made? The success of the Democratic party is of more importance than the success of Judge Black or any other candidate; if we expect to win in November we must nominate men with clean public records.

The railroad letter was not dug up for political purposes—it was not published to hurt Judge Black. Its publication came about in this way: The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered an investigation of the activities of the L. & N. Railroad Company in the distribution of free passes for the purpose of unduly influencing "judges, jurors and public officers". It obtained through its inspectors hundreds of letters like this. Black letter that were on file in the offices of the L. & N. Railroad Company, and then it held a public trial at which the Railroad Company and the Commerce Commission were represented by counsel, numbers of witnesses were examined, and numbers of letters, among them the Black letter, were introduced as evidence. THE PROCEEDINGS AT THE TRIAL, ALL OF THE LETTERS WERE PUBLISHED BY CONGRESS, AND MAY BE FOUND IN A BOOK STYLED "SENATE DOCUMENT NO. 30, SIXTY-FOURTH CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION." Copies of this document can be obtained from any Senator or Congressman.

This trial was had in April, 1916, and this letter then for the first time became public. Does anybody believe that if it had been known or had been made public in 1915 that Judge Black could have been nominated, or if nominated elected Lieutenant Governor?

This letter should be published by every Democratic paper in Kentucky before the primary, so that the Democrats of the State may be fully advised. If, in the face of this letter, they want to invite defeat, let them do it with their eyes open. Next year we must elect a Senator and a President. If Kentucky goes Republican this fall we will have trouble in carrying the State next year. It is the duty of every Democrat to assist in nominating a ticket that can win this November. Can we win if Judge Black is the nominee? We doubt it. July 21 and 23. Adv.—199-201.

Lee County Man's Young Wife Dying From Wounds

Mrs. May McIntosh Slone, 17-year-old wife of Fred Slone, Beattyville, was taken to a hospital at Lexington Friday suffering from a revolver wound in her abdomen, which her husband says was self-inflicted. She probably will die.

Slone said he could not understand why she should have shot herself. He said he and Mrs. Slone were together in their living room shortly before noon, and she seemed to be in the best of spirits.

She placed dinner on the table and then came in to inform him it was ready. Before he went to the table she said she would go to the well which was close to the kitchen door, and draw some water for the meal.

A short time after she went out Slone said, he heard a revolver shot, and going out found his wife's body lying in the kitchen doorway with a bullet hole through her abdomen.

He said he asked her why she shot herself, and her reply was "I didn't do it."

"You know you did, May," her husband said. "Tell me why." She still denied she inflicted the wound, Slone said. Just before the shooting, Slone said, they had been planning to attend the street carnival that night and she was laughing and joking. He had no idea why she should have attempted to take her life. Slone's farm on Big Sinking Creek is one of the best oil producers in Lee county.

Another big crowd was at Boonesboro Sunday, and swimming is said to have been fine. All of the cottages are filled, and Dr. Williams is unable to accommodate many who want to camp at this attractive resort.

The dance next Wednesday evening is being looked forward to by local belles and beaux with much interest and the attendance will undoubtedly be large.

ARMY SELLS A LOT OF FOOD TO HUNS

(By Associated Press)

Coblentz, July 17—Civilians in the American occupied area of Germany have been buying nearly a million marks worth of food daily during the last few weeks from the United States army supplies. The amount sold thus far totals 40,000,000 marks. Germans in Treves and Coblentz have organized a non-profit association which deals with the Inter-Allied Military Commission on Food, the supplies being distributed to the consumers through the retailers who are allowed a limited profit on all sales. Such staples as bacon, rice and canned milk were at first sold to the Germans by the commission of experts, especially the women and children were in need of certain foods. Later, when thousands of American soldiers were homeward bound, the commission decided to open certain stores of the army to the Germans, owing to the fact that there was more food on hand than the army had use for.

Much of the food is brought to the occupied area from the army depots in France, the Germans buying at a small profit to the American army, plus the transportation charges from the United States. To date, food valued at more than forty million marks has been sold to the civilians of the American occupied zone, all from army stores.

Coroner P. A. Tate, of Shearer, was in town Saturday, shaking hands with his many friends.

Swine Production Increases

A summary of co-operative work done by the State and Federal Governments in treatment of hog cholera in Kentucky shows that a total of 60,283 hogs were treated, of which 2,500 belong to infected herds. The report shows 855 per cent of recoveries, compared to 90 per cent of losses where herds were not treated.

The last calendar year showed an increase of 17 per cent in production of swine, of which 7 per cent is attributed to this work being done by agents of the Livestock Sanitary Board, Bureau of Animal Industry and College of Agriculture.

The report shows that the agents treated 667 cholera-infected herds and 936 indirectly exposed.

THAT ELECTION AUGUST 2

(By Associated Press)

Louisville, Ky., July 19—Candidates for state offices in Kentucky will be nominated at a state-wide primary August 2. There is a contest for virtually every office in the Democratic ranks. The Republicans named a ticket in a state convention some time ago, and will merely go through the form of holding a primary in accordance with a state law.

Interest centers largely in the race for the democratic nomination for governor. Candidates include Governor James D. Black who, as Lieutenant-Governor, became Governor when A. O. Stanley succeeded, the late Ollie James as United States senator; Judge James D. Carroll of New Castle, chief justice of the Kentucky Appellate Court, and P. J. Noel of Hardinsburg.

Edwin P. Morrow, Somerset has no opposition for the Republican nomination. Nominations are to be made for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, auditor, treasurer, superintendent of public instruction, commissioner of agriculture, clerk of the court of appeals, and railroad commissioners for the first, second and third districts.

Nominations also will be made for the Kentucky General Assembly, one hundred representatives and nineteen senators to be elected in November. Death of Congressman Harvey Helm, democrat, makes necessary an election from the eighth. Judge Charles A. Hardin, Harrodsburg, is the democratic nominee, and King Swope, Danville, is the republican nominee.
